Whether you know Wendy Stuart Kaplan or have never met her, you will delight in her zany, crazy and blessed life. She is The Last Model Standing and certainly one of the most hilarious model out there. I've had the fun of knowing Wendy for years. She is an outrageous, kind-hearted and wonderfully entertaining person who loves animals as much as she loves people.

Recently Wendy wrote the story of her life. While many of us know bits and pieces from her amusing conversations, I never knew her full story. Now I do! Growing up in the Bronx (outside Manhattan) Wendy was determined to be a super model. After all, her Mom had been a high fashion model, runner up in the 1935 Miss America contest, friends with Lucille Ball and had Hollywood beckon. But life interfered.

While contemplating "how" she was going to become a super model like Mom, Wendy did managed to get her degree in anthropology & archeology which was a pretty funny adventure unto itself. I have known no one else who did their senior thesis in Nigeria studying voodoo! Wendy somehow managed to leave the country with her derrière in tact despite less than safe conditions whilst there.

Completing college, an enthusiastic Wendy then hit the long and hilarious road to becoming, alas not a super model, but one of the world's top fit models and the "face" of everything from commercials to stand up comedy to documentaries. And along the way, she also managed to marry one of the world's top photographers... although, even he couldn't make her a super model.

Wendy's book captures her adventure packed life, told in her very personal and totally entertaining voice. Please make sure you are near a toilet when you read her memories; the book will make you pee from laughter!

Buy her book on Amazon. It will help Wendy pay for her daughter's very expensive education. You can also follow her on Facebook.
